Global Macro & Crypto Market Intelligence

Sat, Jul 4 2026

NEUTRAL Short-term crypto recovery signals emerge, but Extreme Fear sentiment and negative funding rates call for continued caution.

As of July 4, 2026, markets are presenting a mixed picture. VIX has retreated to 16.15, marking its lowest reading of the week and signaling easing short-term volatility pressure. Meanwhile, DXY holds at 100.86 on a relatively soft footing, while the 10-year U.S. Treasury yield stands at 4.37%; the 2Y-10Y spread remains in positive territory at +20 basis points. On the crypto front, BTC is approaching weekly highs at $62,473 with total market cap at $2.25T. However, the Fear & Greed Index remains deep in Extreme Fear at 22, indicating that the price recovery has not yet translated into confidence-driven buying. On the macro calendar front, the Non-Farm Payrolls released Thursday, July 2, came in against a backdrop of a prior 172K reading versus a 114K forecast, a result that could reshape expectations for the Fed's easing path. With the next FOMC meeting 25 days away on July 29 and the Fed's median dot projection holding at 3.8%, a soft jobs print could meaningfully bolster rate cut expectations.
