

WEEKLY DEEP DIVE

Strategic Liquidity, Macro Themes & Crypto Rotation

Sun, Sep 13 2026

Data cut: 2026-09-13 21:43 TRT

WEEK IN ONE MINUTE

NEUTRAL The neutral regime reflects a fragile balance between ample financial conditions and the drag from inflation, fund outflows, and weak market breadth.

The market regime is neutral: supportive financial conditions are offset by persistent inflation pressure and weak crypto market breadth. BTC stands at 77343 with a weekly performance of -3.0, while sector losses show that risk appetite remains narrow. Weekly net BTC ETF flows were -462.7M versus +196.9M for ETH ETFs, signaling selective rotation rather than broad-based demand. Ahead of the FOMC, direction will depend on whether 67582.155 support or 80107.06 resistance breaks first.

THREE THEMES OF THE WEEK

THEME 1 · LIQUIDITY SUPPORT

The NFCI at -0.564 signals supportive financial conditions, with global liquidity at $6.74T. However, that support has not yet translated into broad-based crypto demand.

THEME 2 · INFLATION PRESSURE

Core PCE stands at 3.34 and the federal funds rate forecast is 3.75%, limiting prospective support from monetary policy. The approaching FOMC is the key catalyst for risk assets.

THEME 3 · WEAK BREADTH

DeFi protocols fell -8.333333333333334, while weekly net BTC ETF flows were -462.7M. Weekly net ETH ETF flows of +196.9M point to selective rotation rather than a market-wide advance.

US Inflation Path (CPI, Core CPI, Core PCE YoY — 5-Year) · series date 2026-07

What happened: In July 2026, core PCE was 3.34%, headline CPI was 3.52%, and the expected federal funds rate for the upcoming FOMC is 3.75%.

What it means: As long as core PCE remains above 3.34%, room for near-term rate cuts is constrained; until a clear move below that threshold, a cautious stance is warranted in long-duration bonds and highly valued technology equities.

LIQUIDITY REGIME

US Federal Reserve Net Liquidity (3-Year Weekly) · series date 2026-09-13

Chicago Fed Financial Conditions Index — NFCI (3-Year Weekly) · series date 2026-09-04 -0.564 (-0.004 w/w)

What happened: NFCI stands at -0.564 with a weekly change of -0.00399999999999998925, while the Fed balance sheet is $6.74T after a 0.05 weekly increase and a -0.29 monthly change.

What it means: As long as NFCI remains negative and continues to decline, risk appetite in Bitcoin and high-beta equities is supported over coming weeks; a sustained reversal above -0.564 would weaken that support.

What happened: Markets expect the federal funds rate to remain at 3.75% at the FOMC meeting in 3 days, while the 2026 dot median stands at 3.8.

What it means: Near-term direction for U.S. Treasuries, the dollar, equities, and crypto hinges on the FOMC statement and projections around the 3.8 threshold, elevating event risk ahead of the meeting.

What happened: BTC's 30-day correlation with gold has risen to 0.82, while its 30-day correlation with DXY is -0.62.

What it means: Over the next 30 days, BTC upside positioning is supported if gold strengthens while DXY weakens; a breakdown in these correlations would invalidate the signal.

CUMULATIVE SPOT BTC ETF NET FLOWS (SINCE LAUNCH)

What happened: In the week ending September 13, BTC spot ETFs recorded -462.7M in net outflows, while ETH spot ETFs saw +196.9M in net inflows.

What it means: Stay cautious on BTC in the near term; ETH may remain relatively stronger on institutional demand until BTC ETF flows return to positive territory.

STABLECOIN SUPPLY & SHARE

What happened: Total stablecoin supply fell to 310.246 as of 2026-09-13, while USDT stood at 183.498 and USDC at 74.41.

What it means: The weekly contraction signals softer near-term buying power for crypto risk assets; cautious positioning in BTC and altcoins remains warranted unless total supply moves back above 310.429.

What happened: All major groups declined in sector rotation, with DeFi Protocols the weakest segment at -8.333333333333334 and UNI leading losses at -12.7.

What it means: Near-term downside risk remains dominant for DeFi tokens, and this setup will weaken only if DeFi Protocols moves out of negative territory.

What happened: Bitcoin spot trades at 77343, versus its 200-week moving average of 65172.37045898438 and 200-day simple moving average of 70138.0834765625, with the Mayer Multiple at 1.103.

What it means: As long as Bitcoin holds above 70138.0834765625, the medium-term technical backdrop remains constructive; a break below that threshold would signal a bearish regime shift for risk appetite.

What it means: Despite short-term derivatives long appetite in BTC, downside option hedging and a negative US spot premium support defensive positioning; remain neutral unless 67582.155 support breaks, while a move above 80107.06 would mark stronger risk appetite.
