Global Macro & Crypto Market Intelligence

Mon, Sep 28 2026

NEUTRAL Mixed macro signals and volatility across crypto keep the market outlook balanced and neutral.

The market outlook remains neutral as opposing risk signals continue to offset one another. The VIX rose 9.41% to 16.27, while the DXY gained 0.16% to 101.13; Nasdaq 100 futures fell 0.82%. Total crypto market capitalization declined 4.72% over 24 hours to $2.84 trillion, with BTC down 2.16% at $83,039, although the Fear & Greed index remained in the Greed zone at 74. BTC dominance stood at 58.63%, while the Coinbase premium remained negative at -0.0294%, indicating limited U.S. spot demand. Core PCE is due this week with a monthly forecast of 0.3%, while employment, consumer confidence and ISM data could drive volatility through interest-rate expectations.

STRATEGIC RESEARCH FOCUS

COMMODITIES

Is US-Iran tension making oil and gas supply risk persistent?

The US-Iran stalemate is lifting oil prices and pressuring emerging-market currencies such as the South African rand, while Tullow Oil's positive free cash flow and Germany's claim that supply is secure despite low storage show differing energy exposures. The key research threshold is when higher oil prices stop supporting producers' cash flow and begin amplifying inflation and currency pressure in import-dependent economies.

PRIMARY SOURCES / REPORTS:

- Reuters — South African rand slips as US-Iran stalemate pushes oil prices higher - Reuters — Examine the currency transmission channel from higher oil prices and the US-Iran standoff to the rand.
- Reuters — Tullow Oil swings to positive free cash flow as Ghana output, higher oil prices drive growth - Reuters — Assess how Ghana output and higher oil prices are feeding through to the company's positive free cash flow.
- EIA — Weekly Petroleum Status Report — Track US inventories, production, imports, and refinery utilization for evidence that the supply shock is becoming tangible.

MACRO

Will core PCE and employment data reset Fed pricing?

Core PCE is due on September 30 with a 0.3% monthly forecast, final GDP growth is forecast at 1.5%, and October 2 payrolls are forecast at 98K; meanwhile, the DXY rose to 101.13 and VIX increased 9.41%. The research question is whether above-forecast inflation and weaker employment could occur together, and how that combination would alter pricing around the Fed's 2026 median projection of 4.1 before the October 28 FOMC meeting.

PRIMARY SOURCES / REPORTS:

- BEA — PCE Price Index — Review the official core PCE release and its deviation from the 0.3% monthly forecast.
- BLS — Employment Situation (NFP) — Check payrolls, unemployment, and hourly earnings against the forecasts in the October 2 release.
- Federal Reserve — FOMC Calendar & Statements — Monitor the official October 28 FOMC schedule, statement, and policy guidance ahead of the meeting.

CRYPTO

Why are leverage and liquidity weakening despite crypto ETF inflows?

Bitcoin and Ethereum ETFs recorded total inflows of $134.5 million and $87.0 million respectively on September 25, yet total crypto market capitalization fell 4.72% over 24 hours; the Coinbase premium was -0.0294, Bitcoin's 4-hour trend was bearish, and combined stablecoin market capitalization declined 0.03% over 24 hours. The research question is whether the decisive break in this divergence is a loss of Bitcoin's 82,839.785 support or a recovery of its 85,238.845 resistance.

PRIMARY SOURCES / REPORTS:

- Farside — Bitcoin ETF Flows (All Data) — Track whether daily Bitcoin ETF flows, including IBIT and FBTC, are continuing after the $134.5 million total inflow.
- Farside — Ethereum ETF Flows — Check whether the $87.0 million Ethereum ETF inflow is persistent and independent of Bitcoin demand.
- Coinglass — Derivatives Data — Monitor open interest, funding, and liquidations for leverage buildup, including BTC funding of 0.0160 and ETH funding of 0.0111.

John Mackey is learning that what helped him build Whole Foods Market into a multibillion-dollar business can help him in his second act, but only if he's patient.
