NEUTRAL US-Iran ceasefire sparks a relief rally, but rising yields and ETF outflows keep the broader picture balanced.

Global markets staged a modest relief rally after the US and Iran agreed to pause hostilities, though the macro backdrop continues to send mixed signals. VIX fell 5.8% to 17.62, and Asian equities and bonds bounced; however, the US 10-Year Treasury yield climbed to 4.70%, its highest level in recent weeks, maintaining pressure on risk assets. The DXY edged down to 101.26, offering limited relief. All eyes this week are on the FOMC rate decision on July 29, with the Fed widely expected to hold rates at 3.75%. Additionally, Core PCE (forecast: 0.1% MoM) and Advance GDP (forecast: 2.3%) due on July 30 will be pivotal for the Fed's forward guidance. In crypto, BTC trades around $65,130 while the Fear & Greed Index sits at 30 (Fear), and total crypto market cap hovers near $2.32 trillion.

STRATEGIC RESEARCH FOCUS

MACRO

FOMC Decision 48 Hours Away: Markets Price 'Hold', But Bond Yields Stay Elevated

With the July 29 FOMC meeting just two days away, the Fed funds rate is expected to remain at 3.75%, yet the 10-year Treasury yield hovers near 4.70% and the 2s10s spread sits at only 33 basis points. The same week's Advance GDP (2.3% forecast) and Core PCE (0.1% MoM forecast) due on July 30 will directly shape the Fed's forward guidance. Key signal to watch: whether the FOMC statement includes language confirming 'inflation on target' and whether the 2s10s spread breaks below 30 basis points.

PRIMARY SOURCES / REPORTS:

- Federal Reserve — FOMC Calendar & Statements — Track the July 29 FOMC statement and Chair's press conference transcript; focus on any shift in forward guidance language.
- CME FedWatch Tool — Compare September 2026 rate cut probabilities before and after the meeting; watch the direction of any probability shift.
- BEA — PCE Price Index — Check the July 30 Core PCE MoM print against the 0.1% forecast; a surprise of 0.2% or higher could harden Fed rhetoric.

Crude Oil Futures Price 'Market Adaptability', Not Peace: Where Is the Real Risk?

While the US-Iran ceasefire news boosted risk appetite in equities and bonds, Reuters analysis suggests crude oil futures are pricing market adaptability to supply disruption rather than a durable peace scenario. Gold's 1%+ gain signals that geopolitical uncertainty has not fully dissipated. Key signal to watch: EIA weekly crude inventory data and Gulf production variables — an unexpected inventory build would reinforce the 'supply resilience' thesis, while a draw would suggest geopolitical risk premium is still embedded in prices.

PRIMARY SOURCES / REPORTS:

- EIA — Weekly Petroleum Status Report — Read the weekly change in crude and distillate stocks; an unexpected build supports the 'supply adaptability' thesis, while a draw suggests geopolitical risk premium remains in the price.
- Reuters — Crude Oil Futures Analysis — Read Reuters' 'market adaptability' argument in detail; use it to understand which supply-demand dynamics are driving futures prices.
- Reuters — Gold Gains Over 1% Report — Read why gold is diverging upward from oil; look for language supporting the thesis that 'ceasefire ≠ full resolution'.

Bitcoin ETF Outflow Streak and Persistent Negative Coinbase Premium: Where Are the Institutional Buyers?

As of July 24 data, Bitcoin spot ETFs recorded a total outflow of $240.1 million (IBIT: -$212.2M, FBTC: -$27.9M), while Ethereum ETFs saw $70.7 million in outflows. The Coinbase premium has remained consistently negative over the past week, signaling weakening US institutional demand. The Fear & Greed Index stands at 30 (Fear) and BTC is in a bearish trend on the 4-hour chart. Key signal to watch: whether ETF outflows exceed $100M for three consecutive days, or whether the Coinbase premium flips positive.

PRIMARY SOURCES / REPORTS:

- Farside — Bitcoin ETF Flows (All Data) — Monitor daily net flow figures for all funds, especially IBIT and FBTC; count how many consecutive days outflows have persisted and track the cumulative total.
- Farside — Ethereum ETF Flows — Compare ETH ETF flows against BTC flows; simultaneous outflows across both assets indicate a broader decline in institutional risk appetite.
- Coinglass — Derivatives Data — Check BTC and ETH open interest changes alongside funding rates; persistent positive funding rates combined with ETF outflows raise the risk of a leveraged long squeeze.

--	-------------------------------	------------------------------------

Analyst Note: The 2s10s spread holds at a positive +33.3 bps, which is broadly supportive for the economic cycle, but the parallel rise in both short-term (2Y: 4.37%) and long-term yields (10Y: 4.70%) signals markets are not pricing in imminent Fed cuts. Stablecoin combined market cap at $256.5B, essentially flat, indicates no major dry-powder deployment into crypto is being prepared in the near term.
