Global Macro & Crypto Market Intelligence

Wed, Jul 15 2026

NEUTRAL Middle East tensions push oil higher while crypto struggles to recover from 'Extreme Fear' territory.

Markets are presenting a mixed picture today: BTC trades at $64,502, gaining +3.1% over 24 hours, yet the Fear & Greed Index remains anchored in Extreme Fear at 25. On the macro front, VIX has eased to 16.22 (-5.5%) and the DX softens to 100.90, providing partial tailwinds for risk assets — but the 10Y Treasury yield climbing to 4.61% remains a headwind. The week's most pivotal macro event is tomorrow's (July 15) U.S. PPI release: Core PPI MoM is expected at 0.3% (prior: 0.4%) and headline PPI MoM at 0.0% (prior: 1.1%). Yesterday's CPI print results are not yet available, though consensus anticipated the annual headline figure to cool from 4.2% to 3.8%. Escalating Iran-U.S. tensions have driven Brent crude to $85.86 (+1.3%), complicating the global risk backdrop. Total crypto market cap stands at $2.30 trillion with BTC dominance steady at 56.3%.

Analyst Note: The 2Y-10Y Treasury spread at +34.9 bps reflects a normalizing yield curve, with near-term recession risk not yet priced in. The Copper/Gold ratio surging +5.8% sends a strong industrial demand signal, while the stablecoin market cap holding steady at $257.3 billion suggests dry powder remains on the sidelines.

Iran threatens to block more vital seaways as Trump orders renewed Iran blockade - Reuters

AI Insight: Iran's threat to block vital seaways and Trump's renewed blockade order raise serious concerns about global energy supply security; in such geopolitical uncertainty environments, safe-haven assets like BTC and gold may attract short-term demand, though a broader risk-off shift could simultaneously pressure crypto markets.

Iran-linked vessels pass through Hormuz ahead of US blockade - Reuters

AI Insight: Iran-linked vessels transiting Hormuz ahead of the U.S. blockade makes the oil supply disruption risk increasingly tangible; Brent's rise to $85.86 should be read in this context, and any pass-through to energy inflation could directly complicate the Fed's rate path ahead of tomorrow's PPI data.

Trump wants fees for Hormuz just like Iran - is that legal? - Reuters

AI Insight: Trump's push to charge transit fees for the Strait of Hormuz raises contested questions under international maritime law; such legal ambiguity could amplify volatility in oil futures and elevate the macro risk premium across asset classes.
